Excerpt: .their service, and told most of those hunting adventures which have since been given to the world, before we had the pleasure of hearing our friend relate them himself by our own fireside. I had thus a tolerably good opportunity of testing their accuracy, and I have no hesitation in saying that for those who love that sort of thing Mr. Cumming s book conveys a truthful idea of South African hunting. Some things in it require explanation, hat the number of animals said to have been met with and killed, are by no means improbable, considering the amount of large game then in the country. Two other gentlemen hunting in the same region, destroyed in one season no fewer than seventy-eight rhinoceroses alone. Sportsmen, however, would not now find an equal number, for as guns are introduced among the tribes all these fine animals...
