Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Roman Catholicism: An Explanation of Catholic Belief Taken From Official Sources There is a considerable truth in the statement that clothes are an expression of character - a truth that is not modified by the fact that fashions change while character, generally speaking, does not. For changes in fashion - changes so sweeping as from a doublet to a frock-coat, or from armour to khaki - denote, so far as they are genuine, a change not in the character of human nature but in its environment and needs. This is a very homely parable, yet it is a tolerable illustration of some very august and sacred truths concerning the most sacred and august thing in the world - the Mystical Body of Christ. This, in itself, is even more unchangeable than human nature, since it is human nature ratified and sanctified by the Divine; it is unchangeable in its substance, that is to say, as in its life, its commission, and its message. It cannot in these things be either augmented or increased; the Divine...
