From regimental surgeon of the Eighty-ninth Dr. Squire was promoted to division field-surgeon under General Burnside. The surgeon-general of the army in speaking of him in his report says he was considered one of the most efficient surgeons of the Army of the Potomac. Dr. Squire was a member of the Elmira Academy of Medicine, the County Medical Society, the New York State Medical Society, New York State Medical Association, and American Surgical Association, a national organization of the most celebrated surgeons in the country meeting annually in Washington. He was the inventor of a useful surgical instrument for which a prize was given him by the French Imperial Academy of Medicine. In this instrument there was a fortune for the inventor, but Dr. Squire refused to patent it, saying it was for the good of the world, and belonged to the world, so he gave it to the world. In 1876 the Brilis/r Journal pronounced Dr. Squire to be one of the fore. most medical writers of the world. He died November 27, 1889. Hi; son, Dr. Charles Squire, under the training of a father to whom-to know well was almost equal to a liberal education, promises in many respects to follow in the footsteps of his illustrious ancestor. The eldest daughter, Carrie, is the wife of Hamilton Brown, a banker in Minneapolis, Minn., and the youngest daughter, Frances Boardman Squire, has already, although...
